TOP STORYLINES

- A new era begins for Appalachian State football on Saturday when the 12th-ranked Mountaineers open the 2013 season at No. 20 Montana.
- Most notably, Saturday's season-opener marks the debut for Appalachian State head coach Scott Satterfield. Satterfield was named Appalachian's 20th head coach Dec. 14, 2012. Satterfield replaces legendary head coach Jerry Moore, whose 24-year run at the helm of the Mountaineers came to an end following the 2012 campaign. For more on Scott Satterfield, see p. 5.
- Saturday's game also marks the beginning of the end of an era for Appalachian State football, as the Mountaineers open their final season in NCAA Division I FCS. On March 27, 2013, Appalachian officially accepted an invitation to join the NCAA Division I FBS Sun Belt Conference on July 1, 2014. For more on the transition to FBS, see p. 4.
- Saturday's game also wraps up perhaps the most anticipated regular-season series in FCS history, when Appalachian and Montana play the final game of a home-and-home series.
- The series began last Sept. 8 in Boone, N.C., when Appalachian scored its first-ever win over Montana with a 35-27 triumph in front of 30,856 at jam-packed Kidd Brewer Stadium.
- Despite last year's victory over the Griz, the Mountaineers still trail in the all-time series versus Montana, 2-1.

- Montana has won both previous meetings played in Missoula, Mont.
- Both of the previous App State-Montana matchups played at Washington-Grizzly Stadium came in the semifinals of the NCAA Division I-AA/FCS playoffs. The Griz topped the Apps in overtime, 19-16, in the 2000 national semifinals and eeked out a heart-stopping 24-17 victory in the 2009 semis.
- Appalachian State and Montana have combined to win five NCAA Division I-AA/FCS national championships, make 10 I-AA/FCS championship-game appearances and earn 41 I-AA/FCS postseason berths.
- Appalachian State is opening the season versus an FCS opponent for only the fifth time in the last 20 seasons. Appalachian has not lost an opener to an FCS opponent since a 22-10 loss at North Carolina A&T in 1993.

AN APPALACHIAN STATE WIN WOULD ...

- be its first in three attempts at Washington-Grizzly Stadium.
- even the all-time series between Appalachian State and Montana at 2-2.
- be the program's first in 10 games played west of the Mississippi River.
- be its first in a season opener since 2010 and only its fourth in its last 12 openers.

AN APPALACHIAN STATE LOSS WOULD ...

- drop it to 0-3 all-time at Montana and 1-3 overall versus the Griz.

- drop it to 0-10 all-time in games played west of the Mississippi River.
- be its third-straight season-opening setback and ninth in its last 12 openers.
- mark the first time it lost a season opener to an NCAA Division I FCS opponent since it dropped a 22-10 decision at N.C. A&T in 1993.

NOTING MONTANA

- Montana is coming off an uncharacteristic 5-6 campaign in 2012 that snapped a string of 25-consecutive winning seasons. Prior to last season, the Griz hadn't had a losing season since it went 3-8 in 1985.
- Last year also marked just the second time in 20 seasons that Montana did not earn a berth in the NCAA Division I-AA/FCS playoffs. The Griz made 17-straight postseason appearances from 1993-2009 before the streak was snapped with a 7-4 campaign in 2010.
- The Griz earned a spot in the 2011 NCAA Division I Football Championship field and advanced to the national semifinals but that playoff berth, along with five victories from that season, were vacated as part of sanctions for NCAA rules violations that were announced this past summer.
- Montana is poised to make a return to the postseason this year with 19 full-time starters back from last year's squad.
- The Griz are especially loaded on defense, where they return 10 starters from a year ago. Montana's projected starting lineup on defense features six seniors and just two underclassmen (both sophomores).
- On offense Montana returns seven full-time starters and is also buoyed by the return of junior quarterback Jordan Johnson, who red-shirted last season. Johnson threw for 2,400 yards and 21 touchdowns as a sophomore in 2011, helping lead the Griz to the national semifinals.
- Montana's Washington-Grizzly Stadium is one of the most difficult venues for a visiting team in all of college football. The Griz have won a whopping 88 percent (176-24) of their games at WGS since it opened in 1986 (including five wins from 2011 that were later vacated due to NCAA sanctions).
- Montana has lost consecutive home games just once in this millenium — when it dropped back-to-back home contests to Northern Arizona (41-31) and Southern Utah (30-20) on Sept. 22 and Oct. 13 of last season. The Griz also lost their home finale last year (a 16-7 loss to archrival Montana State), meaning that an Appalachian State victory would give Montana consecutive home losses for only the second time since 2000.
- Appalachian is looking to become just the second Southern Conference team to ever win at Washington-Grizzly Stadium. Wofford topped the Griz, 23-22, in the opening round of the 2007 NCAA Division I Football Championship. SoCon teams are 1-4 all-time at WGS (App State - 0-2, ETSU - 0-1, Georgia Southern - 0-1, Wofford - 1-0).

APPALACHIAN-MONTANA SERIES HISTORY

- Longtime NCAA Division I FCS powers Appalachian State and Montana are squaring off for the second-straight season and fourth time overall.
- Montana leads the all-time series, 2-1.
- Appalachian downed UM, 35-27, on Sept. 8 of last season in the programs' first-ever regular-season meeting at Kidd Brewer Stadium in Boone, N.C. (see more in next column).
- Prior to last season, the Mountaineers and Griz had only met in the postseason, staging epic battles in the 2000 and 2009 NCAA Division I-AA/FCS national semifinals at Washington-Grizzly Stadium.
- In 2000, Montana's Drew Miller threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Jimmy Farris in overtime that lifted the Griz to a 19-16 victory over the Mountaineers. Appalachian, which trailed 13-3 in the fourth quarter, rallied to send the contest to overtime on a Mark Wright 27-yard field goal as time expired. Wright hit a 36-yarder on the first series of overtime before Miller and Farris' game-winning connection.
- In 2009, Appalachian returned to Missoula, Mont. for the national semifinals and once again lost in heartbreaking fashion, 24-17. The Mountaineers led, 17-14, going into the fourth quarter but Montana took a 24-17 lead on a 25-yard pass from Andrew Selle to Jabin Sambrano with 1:37 to go. In his final collegiate game, Armanti Edwards led Appalachian all the way to the three yard line but on the final play of the game, a would-be game-tying touchdown pass slipped through the hands of Brian Quick to seal the win for the Griz. Edwards racked up 407 yards of total offense (353 passing, 54 rushing) and Quick caught 10 passes for 135 yards in the loss.
- Appalachian and Montana have combined to win five NCAA Division I-AA/FCS national championships, make 10 I-AA/FCS championship-game appearances and earn 40* I-AA/FCS postseason berths.
- Since 2005, App State and Montana are FCS's winningest programs with 87 and 77* victories, respectively.

 Montana also had five victories and a postseason appearance in 2011 that were vacated this summer due to NCAA sanctions.*

NOTING LAST YEAR'S WIN OVER MONTANA

- Perhaps the most anticipated regular-season matchup in NCAA Division I FCS history certainly lived up to the hype on Sept. 8, 2012 when No. 11/8 Appalachian State topped No. 12/9 Montana in an epic battle at The Rock.
- A raucous crowd of 30,856, the third-largest in Kidd Brewer Stadium history, saw the FCS powerhouses combine for 900 yards of offense and 19 third- and fourth-down conversions in a contest that, like the two Appalachian State-Montana matchups before it, came down to the wire.
- Appalachian forced two of Montana's four turnovers in the first quarter and turned both miscues into touchdowns to jump out to a 21-7 lead after just one period. The Griz roared back with 14 points in the second quarter to send the game to halftime tied at 21-21 and the score remained deadlocked until a heart-stopping fourth quarter.
- The Mountaineers regained a 28-21 advantage early in the final period when it marched 67 yards in just 1:44. A 32-yard pass from Jamal Londry-Jackson to Sean Price on the drive's first play and a 25-yard touchdown strike from Jackson to Andrew Peacock accounted for 57 of the 67 yards but the biggest play of the possession when Jackson scrambled for a first down on fourth-and-one to keep the series alive and set up the go-ahead touchdown pass to Peacock.
- Later in the fourth quarter, Montana drew within a point on an 87-yard touchdown reception by running back Dan Moore but App State maintained a 28-27 advantage when Griz kicker Chris Lider missed the extra point.
- On the ensuing possession, Appalachian put together a vintage 11-play, 78-yard touchdown drive to stretch its lead to 35-27. Facing third-and-16 from the UM 46 midway through the series, Jackson found true freshman Malachi Jones for a 17-yard first-down pass to keep the drive alive. Steven Miller (now with the Detroit Lions) picked up the final 29 yards from there, capped by his second touchdown of the game with 5:05 to play.
- Thanks to a third-down conversion and two fourth-down conversions, Montana marched into Appalachian territory on its final possession. However, with 18 seconds left to play, all-America cornerback Demetrius McCray made his second interception of the day at the goal line to seal the 35-27 triumph.

APPALACHIAN IN SEARCH OF FIRST WIN WEST OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER

- Appalachian State is 0-9 all-time in games played west of the Mississippi River.
- Saturday's game is Appalachian's first on the other side of the Mississippi since it fell to Montana in the semifinals of the 2009 NCAA Division I Football Championship.

APPALACHIAN vs. BIG SKY CONFERENCE

- Appalachian State is 4-3 all-time versus opponents from the Big Sky Conference.
- Five of the previous seven meetings have come in the postseason.
- After squaring off with Big Sky foes just twice in its first 822 all-time games, Saturday's matchup versus Montana is Appalachian's seventh against a Big Sky opponent in its last 84 games.

SEASON OPENERS

- Appalachian State is 47-33-3 all-time in season openers (.584).
- Appalachian has won just three of its last 11 and seven of its last 21 openers, dating back to 1992. However, that mark is a bit deceiving considering that 16 of those 21 contests have come against NCAA Division I-A/FBS opponents.
- The Mountaineers have not lost a season opener to a I-AA/FCS opponent since a 22-10 setback at North Carolina A&T on Sept. 4, 1993.
- This year also marks the 12th-straight season that Appalachian State opens the campaign on the road. Appalachian has not played a season opener at home since it defeated Liberty, 46-26, to open the 2001 campaign.

TRANSITIONING TO FBS, SUN BELT

- On March 27, 2013, Appalachian State University announced that it would join the Sun Belt Conference on July 1, 2014.
- With the move to the Sun Belt, Appalachian State football will transition to college football's highest level, the NCAA Division I Football Bowl Subdivision (FBS — formerly known as Division I-A).
- Appalachian State football must complete a two-year reclassification process from FCS to FBS. Among other requirements, Appalachian State must raise the number of football scholarships it offers from 63 to 85 during the reclassification period.
- In the first year of the reclassification process (2013), Appalachian State will play a full Southern Conference schedule but will be ineligible for participation in the NCAA Division I Football Championship. Appalachian will also be ineligible to officially win the Southern Conference title, as the league would forfeit its automatic berth in the Division I Football Championship if its champion were ineligible to participate in the postseason.

- The SoCon originally ruled that Appalachian State and Georgia Southern (which is also in the first year of transition to FBS and the Sun Belt) would be listed in the league's regular-season standings in 2013, much like Chattanooga was in 2009 when it was ineligible to participate in the NCAA postseason and, therefore, could not officially win the SoCon title.

- However, on Aug. 12, four-and-a-half months after App State and Georgia Southern accepted their invitations to join the Sun Belt and move to FBS and nearly three weeks after the SoCon reiterated on its media day that Appalachian and GSU would be listed in the conference standings, the SoCon abruptly changed course and bucked precedent by announcing that the Mountaineers and Eagles would be listed below the league's other seven teams in the 2013 standings, regardless of their records in conference play.

- In the second year of the reclassification process (2014), Appalachian State will play a full Sun Belt Conference schedule and be eligible to win the Sun Belt championship but will not be eligible to participate in a postseason bowl game.
- Appalachian State becomes bowl-eligible in 2015.

SoCon SUPREMACY — PART I

- In what turned out to be its final chance to win the Southern Conference, Appalachian State claimed its record-tying 12th SoCon championship in 2012.
- Since the SoCon began crowning a champion in 1933, only Furman, which won 12 titles in its first 73 years in the conference, has claimed more championships than the 11 that Appalachian won in its first 41 seasons in the league.

MOST SoCon CHAMPIONSHIPS

- Last year's SoCon title was Appalachian State's seventh in eight years. In the SoCon's championship era (1933-present), Georgia Southern (1997-2002, 2004) is the only other program to win seven titles in an eight-year span.
- Appalachian also matched a SoCon record with its six-consecutive conference championships from 2005-10, matching the mark originally set by Georgia Southern from 1997-2002.

SoCon SUPREMACY — PART II

- Appalachian State is 39-5 (.886) in its last 44 SoCon games and 53-8 (.869) in conference action since the beginning of the 2005 campaign.
- Appalachian State is by far the SoCon's winningest program since 2000, with a gaudy

81-19 record in conference play, 12 wins more than the next-closest competitor, Georgia Southern.

SoCon RECORDS SINCE 2000 (SoCon games only)

| The Citadel | 32-68 | .320 |
| Western Carolina | 23-77 | .230 |
| VMI (2000-02) | 5-19 | .208 |

• Since the beginning of the 2005 campaign, Appalachian is 36-1 against SoCon foes besides Georgia Southern, Wofford and Furman (and a still-impressive 17-7 against the Eagles, Terriers and Paladins). The Mountaineers' loss to The Citadel on Sept. 15 of last season marked the first time since a 30-27 setback at Western Carolina on Nov. 13, 2004 that App State lost to a conference opponent outside of the GSU-Wofford-Furman trio.

CAROLINAS' BEST

• Prior to winning its first national championship in 2005, a quantitative study by the Charlotte Observer tabbed Appalachian State as the Carolinas' most successful Division I football program over the previous two decades (1985-2004).

• A look at the numbers since the turn of the millenium seem to validate the Observer's findings. Since 2000, Appalachian easily has the best winning percentage of any Division I program in North or South Carolina.

IN THE NATIONAL POLLS

• Appalachian State is ranked No. 12 nationally in The Sports Network's NCAA Division I FCS preseason top-25 poll.

• However, the Mountaineers' ranking is very likely not an actual indication of where prognosticators truly feel Appalachian stacks up nationally in its final FCS season. The Mountaineers' No. 12 ranking came despite some voters leaving Appalachian off their ballots altogether in response to the Apps' impending move to the Sun Belt Conference and NCAA Division I FBS ranks in 2014.

• Appalachian State has been ranked in The Sports Network poll for 109-straight weeks, dating back to the Sept. 19, 2005 rankings.

• Appalachian is 203-79-1 (.721) all-time in games in which they are nationally ranked.

• Appalachian is 5-0 all-time when playing as the No. 12 team in The Sports Network poll. Most recently the 12th-ranked Mountaineers defeated Furman, 33-28, to claim its 12th Southern Conference title in last year's regular-season finale (Nov. 12, 2012).

• Much like the Southern Conference did with regards to its regular-season standings, the FCS coaches' poll (which is administered by the SoCon) bucked precedent by making Appalachian State ineligible for its rankings in the Mountaineers' first year of transition from FCS to FBS. The policy represents a change of course from 2011 when Massachusetts and Texas State were eligible for the poll during their initial year of transition.

SATTERFIELD ERA BEGINS

• Saturday's season opener at Montana will mark the first time since Nov. 19, 1988 (a span of 9,052 days) that a head coach other than Jerry Moore will roam the Appalachian State sideline.

• Scott Satterfield will lead the Mountaineers into the opener at Montana after being named Appalachian State's 20th head coach on Dec. 14, 2012.

• Satterfield, 40, has been a part of the college-football landscape for more than half his life, most notably for his 17 previous seasons as a player (1991-95) and assistant coach (1998-2008, 2012) at Appalachian State.

• As a player and coach, he has helped lead the Mountaineers to three national titles and eight Southern Conference championships.

• Satterfield is the sixth Appalachian State alumnus to serve as the Mountaineers' head coach and the first in 43 years.

OFFENSE

TEAM

- Appalachian State returns 10 starters from last season's high-powered offense. The 10 returning offensive starters are the Mountaineers' most since Appalachian began tracking starters returning/lost in 1983.
- With a relatively inexperienced offensive unit a year ago, Appalachian State ranked among the nation's top 25 in total offense (ninth - 464.0 ypg), passing efficiency (ninth -152.03 rating), passing yardage (14th - 293.8 ypg) and scoring (23rd - 32.92 ypg).
- Appalachian also ranked 39th in rushing yardage a season ago (170.3 ypg), making it one of only four FCS programs to rank among the nation's top 40 in all five major offensive statistical categories — scoring, rushing, passing, passing efficiency and total offense. Coastal Carolina, Harvard and Northern Arizona were the only other squads to accomplish the feat.
- Since installing its patented spread offense in 2004, Appalachian State has finished among the nation's top 25 in the five major offensive statistical categories 30 out of a possible 45 times. That impressive percentage includes an 0-for-5 in 2011, when it did not finish higher than 37th in any category.

| 2011: 390.2 (38th) |
| 2012: 464.0 (9th) |

- Appalachian's 464 yards of total offense per game last season was the second-highest average in program history, behind only the 488.3 that the Mountaineers averaged in 2007, when it won its last of three-straight national championships, and the 465.1 that they averaged in 2009, the senior season of two-time Walter Payton Award-winning quarterback Armanti Edwards.

- Appalachian State set a school record by amassing at least 400 yards of total offense 10 times in 11 regular-season games last season. The previous record for 400-yard games during the regular season was eight, also set in 2007.

- In each of their final 11 games of the season, the Mountaineers gained more yards than their opponent's season average for yards allowed going into the ballgame.

- For the first time in school history, Appalachian State produced a 3,000-yard passer (Jamal Londry-Jackson - 3,278 yds.), a 1,000-yard rusher (Steven Miller - 1,368 yds.) and a 1,000-yard receiver (Sean Price - 1,196 yds.) in 2012.

- Despite fielding a total of nine first-time starters on offense over the course of last season, Appalachian's increased its offensive output by 18.9 percent over 2011, when current NFL players Brian Quick, Travaris Cadet and DeAndre Presley all played prominent roles in the unit (464.0 ypg in 2012, 390.2 ypg in 2011).

- Since the beginning of the 2004 (when Appalachian State started running its spread offense), the Mountaineers have scored 30 points or more 82 times in 121 games (67.8 percent of all games) and have scored 40 points or more 43 times (35.5 percent of all games).

- Also since the beginning of the 2004 campaign, Appalachian has gained 20 yards or more on 7.4 percent of its offensive plays (580 times in 7,791 plays).

- Last season, the Mountaineers gained 20 yards or more on 6.8 percent of their offensive plays (60-of-877).

QUARTERBACKS

- Senior quarterback Jamal Londry-Jackson returns for his third and final season as Appalachian State's starting signal-caller in 2013.

- Londry-Jackson is coming off one of the best seasons by a passer in Appalachian history. He set school records for single-season completions (268) and pass attempts (406) last season and threw for 3,278 yards, just 13 yards shy of the school record of 3,291 set by Armanti Edwards as a senior in 2009.

- Londry-Jackson owns six school records and ranks among the program's all-time leaders in virtually every category for a QB.

OFFENSE

Last season, Londry-Jackson became the third player in Appalachian State history with 3,000 passing yards in a season (Edwards - 2009, Richie Williams - 2004), the fourth with 3,000 yards of total offense in a season (Edwards - 2006-09, Williams - 2004-05 and DeAndre Presley - 2010) and the fifth with 20 touchdown passes in a season (Edwards - 2008, Williams - 2004-05, Presley - 2010 and Pat Murphy - 1968).

For his career, Londry-Jackson is one of five players in Appalachian State history with 6,000 yards of total offense (Edwards, Williams, Steve Brown - 1977-80 and D.J. Campbell - 1989-92), seven with 400 completions (Edwards, Williams, Campbell, Joe Burchette - 1999-2002, Randy Joyce - 1981-84 and Brown) and eight with 5,000 passing yards (Edwards, Williams, Brown, Burchette, Murphy and Joyce).

In 19 career starts, Londry-Jackson has passed for at least 200 yards and amassed at least 250 yards of total offense 17 times.

Londry-Jackson has also completed at least 57.5 percent of his passes in 17 of his 19 starts. He has never completed less than half of his passes as a starter.

Despite throwing 28 more passes than any Mountaineer has ever thrown, Londry-Jackson completed 66.0 percent of his attempts in 2012, good for fourth in single-season school history.

Londry-Jackson has completed 63.9 percent of his 628 career pass attempts (436 completions), good for second in school history behind Edwards (768-1,180 - 65.1 percent).

With 300 passing yards on Saturday at Montana, Londry-Jackson would become the first player in Appalachian State history with four-straight 300-yard passing games. He is currently tied with Edwards for the school record of three-consecutive 300-yard games.

THREE-CONSECUTIVE 300-YD PASSING GAMES APPALACHIAN STATE HISTORY

Jamal Londry-Jackson

- 383 vs. Georgia Southern, Nov. 3, 2012
332 vs. Furman, Nov. 10, 2012
373 vs. Illinois State, Dec. 1, 2012

Armani Edwards

- 415 vs. Wofford, Oct. 17, 2009
320 vs. Georgia Southern, Oct. 24, 2009
355 vs. Furman, Oct. 31, 2009

Since Londry-Jackson took over as Appalachian's starting quarterback six games into the 2011 season, the Mountaineers have scored touchdowns on 71-of-237 offensive possessions with him behind center (30 percent). For comparison's sake, in its previous 23 possessions before Londry-Jackson took over as starting quarterback on Oct. 15, 2011 at The Citadel, Appalachian's offense had reached the end zone only twice (8.7 percent).

Although they're inexperienced at the position, the Mountaineers enjoy great depth behind Londry-Jackson at quarterback.

Sophomore Kameron Bryant put together a terrific fall camp to solidify his standing as Londry-Jackson's top backup.

Bryant made his collegiate debut in a 55-14 rout over Coastal Carolina on Sept. 29 of last season but just 13 snaps in, he sustained a season-ending knee injury.

Also adding depth at QB is junior Logan Hallock, who turned in one of Appalachian State's most memorable performances of the 2012 campaign in a 38-27 win at Western Carolina on Oct. 27.

After Londry-Jackson went down with a knee injury that would eventually require offseason surgery just 10 minutes in to the win over WCU, Hallock entered the game and completed 20-of-21 passes for 230 yards and two touchdowns.

Hallock's .952 completion percentage was a single-game school record and ranked fourth in Southern Conference history (min. 10 completions).

Hallock, whose only two previous plays as a college quarterback came when he handed off twice to close out Appalachian's 55-14 win over Coastal Carolina on Sept. 29, completed the first 20 passes he threw against WCU (the first 20 passes of his collegiate career). The 20-consecutive completions were good for a tie for second in SoCon history, behind only the NCAA all-divisions record of 28 set by former Mountaineer Richie Williams versus Furman in 2004.

RUNNING BACKS

The only offensive position where Appalachian State does not return a starter this season is running back.

Most notably, Appalachian must fill the shoes left by the departure of Steven Miller, who rushed for 1,368 yards last season, good for seventh in school history, and amassed 377 receiving yards and 15 total touchdowns (11 rushing, four receiving).

In addition to Miller, the only other running backs to receive double-digit carries last year are also no longer at the position. Rod Chisholm (41 att., 154 yds., 2 TD) graduated and Michael Frazier (17 att., 93 yds., 1 TD) returned to his natural position at outside linebacker during the offseason.

The Mountaineers' only running back that saw any game action last year is sophomore Ricky Ferguson, who had five carries for one yard as a true freshman in 2012.

Despite the inexperience, Ferguson has earned the starting assignment at running back with strong performances during spring practice and fall camp.

Among those expected to back Ferguson up are redshirt freshman Paul Magloire, true freshman Marcus Cox and sophomore Eric Davidson, a transfer from the University of Utah.

WIDE RECEIVERS

Appalachian State boasts what many prognosticators consider to be the nation's top corps of wide receivers.

Appalachian wideouts combined for 242 receptions for 2,966 yards and 17 touchdowns a year ago and all six players that contributed to that production — seniors Andrew Peacock and Tony Washington and sophomores Sean Price, Malachi Jones, Simms McElfresh and Taco Sumler are back in 2013.

Price, Peacock, Washington and Jones all ranked among the Southern Conference's top 20 in receiving yards and receptions per game.

APPALACHIAN STATE RECEIVERS IN THE 2012 SoCon RANKINGS

Over the last 19 games (which coincide with classmate Jamal Londry-Jackson's 19 starts at quarterback), Peacock and Washington have combined for 166 receptions, 1,844 receiving yards and 10 touchdown catches.

* career highs

• Peacock has had no fewer than six receptions and 55 receiving yards in seven-straight games. He is averaging eight receptions and 76.4 yards per game (56 receptions for 535 yards total) over the seven-game stretch, which began on Oct. 6 of last season vs. Elon.

• Peacock also threw touchdown passes in each of the final two games of last season (Nov. 10 vs. Furman and Dec. 1 vs. Illinois State). He is a perfect 2-for-2 for 17 yards and two touchdowns passes in his career (both to tight end Drew Bailey).

• While Peacock ranked second on the squad behind Price in both receptions and receiving yards last season as one of the nation's top possession receivers, it's Washington that has drawn the attention of preseason prognosticators in 2013. Washington was named preseason all-America as a receiver (third-team), kickoff returner (third-team) and punt returner (fourth-team) by Phil Steele. The speedster was also tabbed third-team preseason all-America as a return specialist by The Sports Network.

• Washington established himself as one of the nation's premier playmakers with 1,316 all-purpose yards (472 receiving, 71 rushing, 635 on kickoff returns and 144 on punt returns) as a junior last season. For more on Washington as a return specialist, see p. 11.

• Appalachian State will be without the services of Price for an undetermined number of games due to a violation of team rules.

• Last season, Price needed just 10 games to set NCAA Division I FCS freshman records with 81 receptions and 1,196 receiving yards, shattering the previous records of 71 receptions (set by Cal State Northridge's Drew Amerson in 1999) and 1,073 yards (set by Marshall's Randy Moss in 1996).

TIGHT ENDS

• Appalachian State also returns its entire slate of tight ends from a season ago, headlined by junior Drew Bailey and senior Josh Anding.

• Bailey started 10 games and played in all 12 for the Mountaineers last season. He was the only tight end on the squad with any receptions (nine for 123 yards and four touchdowns).

• Bailey's four touchdown catches were the most by an Appalachian tight end since Ben Jordan hauled in six touchdown receptions in 2010.

• Bailey was the only Mountaineer in 2012 to catch touchdowns from three different passers. Jamal Londroy-Jackson threw Bailey's touchdown catch versus Coastal Carolina on Sept. 29, backup QB Logan Hallock tossed a 16-yarder scoring strike to Bailey on Oct. 27 at Western Carolina and WR Andrew Peacock connected with Bailey on a reverse option in the regular-season finale versus Furman and out of the wildcat formation in the season-ending loss to Illinois State.

OFFENSIVE LINE

• Appalachian State's veteran offense is rounded out by returning all five primary starting offensive linemen from a season ago — LT Kendall Lamm, LG Shaq Counts, C Graham Fisher, RG Alex Acey and RT Will Corbin.

• Due to a wide array of injuries and other factors, Appalachian used five different combinations of starting offensive linemen during the regular season.

• After a terrific start to the season, the depleted personnel took its toll on the young offensive line over the second half of the regular season.

• Through the first six games of 2012, the Mountaineers surrendered just five sacks (.83 per game) but over the final six ballgames, they allowed 20 (3.3 per game).

• Despite not being able to maintain the ultra-strong start to the campaign throughout the year, Appalachian's offensive line remained one of the nation's best in terms of sacks allowed per pass attempt. Of the 61 NCAA Division I FCS teams that allowed 25 sacks or less last season, only five (Stephen F. Austin, Drake, Illinois State, Richmond and Central Arkansas) attempted more passes than the Mountaineers' 430.

• Last season's spate of injuries caused Appalachian State to have to juggle offensive-line personnel for the second-straight year. In all, Appalachian has used 10 different starting combinations across the offensive front over the past two seasons.

• Prior to 2011, consistency across the offensive front was commonplace for the Mountaineers, who utilized the same starting five on the offensive line for 12-of-13 games in 2010 and put the same starting five on the field for all 14 games in 2009 and all 14 contests in 2008. To put that unprecedented stretch of consistency in perspective, prior to 2008, it had been 19 years (1989 — Jerry Moore's first season as Appalachian's head coach) since the Mountaineers featured the same five starting offensive linemen for every game in a campaign.

• When center Graham Fisher caught a deflected pass and rumbled 13 yards for a first down in the third quarter of the Mountaineers' win over Montana on Sept. 8 of last season, he became the first Appalachian offensive lineman to catch a pass since center Scott Suttle hauled in a batted pass for no yardage at Kansas in 2005.

DEFENSE

Appalachian State is transitioning to a true 3-4 defense under new defensive coordinator Nate Woody in 2012.

Woody came to Appalachian from Southern Conference rival Wofford, where he coordinated the league's top defense three times in 13 years, including 2010 and 2012.

Woody inherits a high-octane defense that ranked among the SoCon leaders in tackles for loss, sacks and interceptions last season.

The Mountaineers led the Southern Conference and ranked 37th nationally with 77 stops behind the line of scrimmage in 2012 (6.4 pg).

Appalachian opened the 2012 campaign with four-consecutive games with seven or more tackles for loss, marking the first time since 2007 that the Mountaineers registered seven or more stops behind the line of scrimmage in four-straight games. App State had eight-straight games with at least seven TFL from Sept. 8-Nov. 3, 2007.

2012 APPALACHIAN STATE GAME-BY-GAME TFL

Table with columns: Opponent, TFL-Yards. Rows include East Carolina, Montana, The Citadel, Chattanooga, Coastal Carolina, Elon, Samford, Wofford, Western Carolina, Georgia Southern, Furman, Illinois State, and Total (77-277).

After recording only two sacks over the first three games of the season (0.7 per game), Appalachian's pass rush was tenacious for the rest of the 2012 season with 24 sacks over the final nine games (2.7 per game).

The Mountaineers' sack attack over the last nine games of last season was even more impressive considering that they did not record any sacks in games against Wofford's and Georgia Southern's triple-option offenses. Those two contests notwithstanding, the Apps averaged 3.4 sacks per game over the other seven contests of the final nine-game stretch.

2012 APPALACHIAN STATE GAME-BY-GAME SACKS

Table with columns: Opponent, Sacks-Yards. Rows include East Carolina, Montana, The Citadel, Chattanooga, Coastal Carolina, Elon, Samford, Wofford, Western Carolina, Georgia Southern, Furman, Illinois State, and Total (26-160).

Appalachian State finished tied atop the Southern Conference and tied for 15th nationally with 14 interceptions last season.

Since 2008, Appalachian's 82 interceptions are 15 more than the next-closest SoCon team during that same span (Samford — 67).

SoCon INTERCEPTIONS (2008-12)

Table with columns: App State, 2012, 2011, 2010, 2009, 2008, Total. Rows include Samford, Furman, Ga. Southern, Wofford, Elon, Chattanooga, The Citadel, and W. Carolina.

Despite an inflated yards-per-game average due in large part to playing three teams that ranked among the top four nationally in rushing yardage last season (Georgia Southern, Wofford and The Citadel), Appalachian State was also strong against the run for the most part in 2012. The Mountaineers held five opponents to less than 100 rushing yards and surrendered an average of just 116.1 rushing yards per game against their nine non-triple-option opponents.

The Mountaineers limited 3-of-4 opponents from Sept. 22-Oct. 13 to less than 100 rushing yards (87 at Chattanooga, 96 vs. Elon, 82 at Samford), marking the first time since Nov. 14-28, 2009 (58 at Elon, 70 vs. Western Carolina, 33 vs. South Carolina State) that App State held 3-of-4 opponents under the century mark for rushing.

DEFENSIVE LINE

Appalachian State's most experienced group on defense is its defensive line, where the nine players listed on this week's depth chart have combined for 58 career starts.

The Mountaineers' depth across the defensive front is so good that Appalachian was able to move Davante Harris, who earned freshman all-America recognition as a defensive end last season, to the offensive line.

Leading the way is junior Ronald Blair, who has started all 24 games of his career at defensive end. Blair's streak 24-consecutive starts is the longest on the team (Jamal Londry-Jackson ranks second with 19-straight starts at quarterback).

Blair ranked among the Southern Conference's top 25 in both tackles for loss (8.5 - 14th) and sacks (3.0 - t-21st) last season.

Senior Adam Scott is one of two Appalachian State defenders (linebacker Karl Anderson being the other) that originally elected to forego his final season of eligibility after earning his bachelor's degree last December. However, he decided this past spring to return to the squad while pursuing an MBA as a graduate student at Appalachian.

Scott made six starts and recorded six tackles for loss and five sacks as fourth-year junior last season.

LINEBACKERS

Perhaps the two biggest sets of shoes to fill for Appalachian State in 2013 are those left behind by the graduation of linebackers Jeremy Kimbrough and Brandon Grier.

The duo combined for 217 tackles, 20.5 tackles for loss and 10.5 sacks last season and 557 tackles, 50 tackles for loss and 18 sacks during their brilliant four-year careers.

Last season, Kimbrough ranked fifth nationally with 143 total tackles last season, good for seventh in school history.

This week's depth chart at linebacker includes five freshmen and just three players that have previously logged any significant minutes at App State — senior Michael Frazier (three career starts), senior Karl Anderson (two starts) and junior Brandon McGowan (one start).

Frazier, who began his collegiate career as a linebacker before moving to running back the past two seasons, is back at his natural position and has earned a starting nod at one of the outside linebacker positions.

Frazier is the only player on the Appalachian State roster that played in the 2009 NCAA Division I Football Championship semi-final between Appalachian and Montana at Washington-Grizzly Stadium. Frazier came off the bench to record six tackles (one shy of his career high) during the Mountaineers' 24-17 loss.

Anderson is one of two Appalachian State defenders (defensive end Adam Scott being the other) that originally elected to forego his final season of eligibility after earning his bachelor's degree last December. However, he decided this past spring to return to the squad while pursuing an MBA as a graduate student at Appalachian.

- Anderson made 39 stops and started two games as a fourth-year junior last season.

DEFENSIVE BACKS

- Another area where Appalachian State is stocked with young talent is in its secondary.
- With the graduation of all-America cornerback Demetrius McCray and four-year starter Troy Sanders and the move of starting safety Patrick Blalock to outside linebacker, Appalachian returns only one starter to its secondary in 2013 — junior Joel Ross, who spent last season at the "star" position before transitioning to cornerback this year.
- Despite the reshuffling, the Mountaineers still boast 25 combined starts among their defensive backs — 12 by senior cornerback Rodger Walker, 10 by Ross and three by sophomore Doug Middleton, who is coming off a foot injury that cost him all but one game of the 2012 campaign.

SPECIAL TEAMS

• Tony Washington is a consensus preseason all-American as a return specialist, having earned third-team honors from The Sports Network, as well as third- (kickoff returner) and fourth-team (punt returner) recognition from Phil Steele.

- As a junior in 2012, Washington ranked 11th nationally with a 27.3-yard kickoff-return average and 21st with a 9.0-yard punt-return average.

• On Oct. 20 of last season, Washington recorded Appalachian State's first kickoff return for a touchdown in five years versus Wofford. Washington's 99-yard return, which gave Appalachian a 28-24 lead in the third quarter of the 38-28 loss to the Terriers, was the Mountaineers' first kickoff return for a touchdown since CoCo Hillary's 95-yarder at Wofford in 2007.

• Washington's 99-yard return was the second-longest in Appalachian State history and the longest since Keith Nash's school-record 100-yarder at Lenoir-Rhyne in 1968.

• With the graduation of All-American Sam Martin (now the starting punter for the Detroit Lions), senior Drew Stewart has re-emerged as Appalachian State's primary place kicker.

• Stewart served as the Mountaineers' primary place kicker for the final six games of the 2011 campaign and the first eight games of last season.

• Known for his accuracy, Stewart has made 70 percent of his field-goal attempts in his career (14-of-20) and 96.2 percent of his extra-point attempts (51-of-53).

• As a sophomore, Stewart etched his name in the school and Southern Conference record books when he kicked six field goals and accounted for 21 points in the Mountaineers' 46-14 rout over Western Carolina on Nov. 12, 2011.

|----|----|---------------------------|-------------------------|------|
| 1) | 21 | Drew Stewart (ASU) | Western Carolina | 2011 |
| | 20 | Josh Jones (WCU) | Samford | 1999 |

• Stewart's 21 points against WCU in 2011 fell just three points shy of the NCAA Division I FCS record of 24, set by Northern Arizona's Goran Lingmerth versus Idaho in 1986.

• With his 21 points, Stewart outscored 32 of the 116 FCS teams that played on Nov. 12, 2011 and matched the scoring output of six others.

• Two youngsters — sophomore Zach Matics and walk-on true freshman Bentlee Critcher — are vying to fill the void left behind by the graduation of Martin, a first-team Associated Press All-American last season, at both punter and on kickoffs.

• Neither Matics nor Critcher have seen game action during their collegiate careers.

• Martin ranked third nationally last season with a 45.9-yard punting average (second-highest in school history). He set a school record with 25 punts downed inside the 20 yard line and helped Appalachian rank second nationally with a 40.8-yard net average.

• Martin also averaged 63.1 yards with 45 touchbacks on 71 kickoffs in 2012.

MISCELLANEOUS

YOUTH MOVEMENT

- Appalachian State is likely fielding one of the youngest squads at any level of college football this season with just 11 seniors and a whopping 52 freshmen on its current 108-player roster.
- All told, just 30 of the team's 108 current players are upperclassmen (27.8 percent).

ROAD WARRIORS

- Since going winless on the road in 2004, Appalachian State is 32-7 versus NCAA Division I FCS competition and 33-13 overall away from Kidd Brewer Stadium.
- Since sustaining a four-game road losing streak from Nov. 6, 2010-Oct. 1, 2011, Appalachian has won six of its last eight road tilts, including 6-of-7 versus FCS opponents.

- The Mountaineers went 4-0 in Southern Conference road games last season, marking only the eighth time in 41 seasons in the SoCon that Appalachian went undefeated on the road in league play.

WELCOME TO THE ROCK

- Appalachian State has won 65 of its last 73 games at Kidd Brewer Stadium, dating back to the beginning of the 2003 season.
- For the sixth-straight season, Appalachian State led NCAA Division I FCS in regular-season attendance this season with an average attendance of 27,964 over its six home games in 2012.
- The crowd of 30,856 for the Sept. 8 home opener versus Montana was the third-largest in Kidd Brewer Stadium history and the second-largest on-campus crowd for an NCAA Division I FCS game last season (behind only the 31,123 that attended the Harvard-Yale game at Harvard Stadium).

 - 10 BCS/Power 5 conference programs (Colorado, Duke, Indiana, Iowa State, Kansas, Minnesota, Northwestern, Wake Forest, Washington State and Vanderbilt)
 - 58 of 125 FBS programs
 - every Sun Belt Conference program
 - all non-FBS programs
- The record for former Appalachian State players on active NFL regular-season rosters is eight, originally set in 1987 and matched last season.
